

A ZINE BY MARCUS FESSLER

MODO EGO SUM LIBERUM

Overall, I try to make work hinged on iconographic considerations rather than aesthetic ones. The underlying theme of this work is about one's construction of self through images and their psychological connection to identity. Specifically this work touches on themes of meaninglessness, cyclical patterns, and the connection between fear and destruction.

I AM FREE NOW

2019

I fly until my wings
can no longer hold me up

Hiding in the grass
I scrounge the dirt

Jarring sounds sends me spiraling

Will this breath finally be my last

The energy of terror manifests my strength

I fly on the thrill of my creeping death

Yearning still, to come back down and fight for my life again
